The Learning Engagement Achievement Progress (LEAP) program at the University of Utah features a unique collaboration with Marriott Library. Each first-year community learning LEAP course that is tied to a specific disciplinary focus offers an embedded librarian as a co-teacher for a variety of research skills that are mapped onto a research project. This partnership is over twenty years strong at the University of Utah and continues to grow and evolve with the integration of online learning modules and targeted sessions with functional experts in the library.
